Student Council Proposes Changes

After weeks of discussion and consideration of the suggestions that Student Council has received, they have come to the following conclusions for proposed rule changes that will be discussed with the Faculty Committee on Student Relations on Thursday afternoon. They hope that these changes will be best for the student body as a whole, and it is their opinion that they will if each individual will accept the responsibility for herself and for those about her.

At any time—

1. During the week students may go to the local drugstore after having attended the movie.

2. Formal study hall will not be observed on Friday night.

3. Students will not be required to return to their rooms on Saturday night at 12:00; however, the 11:00 check will be observed.

4. Radios may be played after 11:00 on week nights and after 12:00 on Saturday night, provided the house votes to do so.

5. Cokes may be bought after 11:00 provided the house votes to do so.

6. In addition to the allotted week-ends, students may have an extra day trip to be used at their discretion. Permission for this day trip will be printed on the blue sheet.

7. Students may ride with approved friends until 7:30 any night provided they go by rules set up in the handbook in reference to interpretation of riding.

8. Students may ride to and from the business section for supper on Saturday and Sunday nights from 5:30 until 7:30 provided they sign in and out.

9. Students may attend movies on Sunday night after church hours.

"Y" Includes Skit In Plans

"Y" will present the skit, "South on Trial," Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock in Porter Auditorium at the regular Vesper service.

The skit is about seven Christian students charging the South with negligence of its people, with a jury selected from the audience. Jane Macrae, Atlanta, is in charge of the program.

CURRENT AFFAIRS SPEAKERS NAMED

Rabbi Joseph I. Weiss will speak at the Current Affairs supper Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Rev. Kerr Taylor, pastor of the Milledgeville Presbyterian Church, will speak at Current Affairs supper on May 26.

Tuesday morning, May 24, Dr. Frances Hicks will conclude the Bible Study series with "Bible and Social Justice."

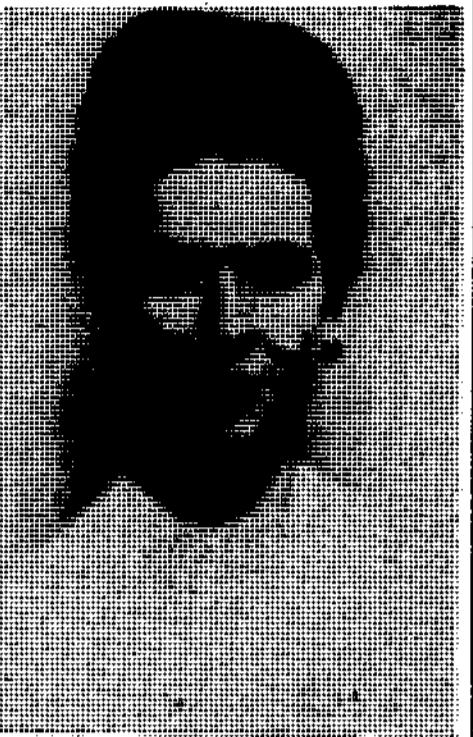

CHAPEL PROGRAM

Friday, May 20—Rabbi Joseph L. Weiss of Columbus, sponsored by the Jewish Chatauqua Society, will speak.

Monday, May 23—The I. R. C. will present a skit. (Tentative).

Mr. and Mrs. Trygve Rydberg will sing the leading roles in the light opera "Naughty Marietta," on Friday evening, May 20, in Russell Auditorium.

Marietta, on Friday evening, May 20, in Russell Auditorium.

Rabbi Weiss Speaks In Chapel Friday

Rabbi Joseph I. Weiss will speak to the student body at chapel hour Friday, May 20.

Rabbi Weiss, who was born in Macon, Georgia, received his high school training in New York City and was graduated from the University of Cincinnati and received the Ph. D. Degree from Webster University in 1943.

Rabbi Weiss occupied the pulpit in Goldsboro, North Carolina from 1939 to 1943, when he entered the service of the United States army as a chaplain. After three years of service, part of which time was spent overseas in the Pacific theatre, Rabbi Weiss returned to the pulpit in Goldsboro. He is now serving the pulpit in Columbus, Georgia.

Annual Alumnae Day Set For June 11

Alumnae Day, which is always held on the Saturday before Graduation, is this year, still true to form, to be on June the eleventh.

A large attendance is expected as fifteen past classes of GSCW are scheduled to have a reunion. They are the classes of: 1889, which will be celebrating its 50th wedding anniversary; 1901, 1903, 1904, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, and 1948.

Miss Mabry Harper, of Milledgeville, who is a graduate of the 1889 class and who is a retired professor of Home Economics, has a dress that she had during the year that she graduated and it will probably be modeled.

The events of Alumnae Day will begin with the registration and room assignments of the new arrivals who will be housed at Bell Hall.

Immediately after the registration at 12:30, P. M., there will be a luncheon held in the college cafeteria.

The Alumnae Council meeting will be held at 2:00 o'clock at the Alumnae Apartment. This council consists of the officers of the Alumnae Association; the chairmen of all the standing committees; the secretaries of Alumnae of the different classes; and representatives from many alumnae clubs throughout the state and out of the state. The annual business meeting will be held in Beeson Rec Hall at three o'clock.

The climax of the day is to be a formal banquet to be held in Atkinson Dining Hall. The seniors of the class of 1949 will be honor guests and will be inducted into the Alumnae. The toast mistress of the banquet will be Mrs. Katie Jordan Dennis (Mrs. F. A.), class of 1918. The main speaker for the banquet is to be Helen Pace Thompson, (Mrs. J. S.), class of '21, from Atlanta, who is Assistant Branch Manager of the Fulton National Bank and former president of the Atlanta Alumnae Club. After the banquet Dr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wells will hold open house for the Alumnae guests at the mansion.

The Alumnae secretary for the senior class of '49 is to be elected at a very early date.

Prominent Speakers Slated For Graduation Exercises June 11-13

Three distinguished speakers will be on the GSCW campus in June to take part in the commencement exercises.

Dr. Helen White, past national president of the American Association of University Women and associate professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, will deliver the commencement address in Russell Auditorium on Monday, June 13, at 10:30 a.m. Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., and former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Atlanta, will preach the commencement sermon on Sunday, June 12, at 11:30.

Mrs. J. Schley Thompson, Atlanta, prominent banker and first woman vice-president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, will be the alumnae banquet speaker this year. Mrs. Thompson, a GSCW graduate and past president of the GSCW Alumnae Club of Atlanta, was formerly Miss Helen Pace of Smyrna.

Dr. White is the author of a number of books, among them are The Mysticism of William Blake, English Devotional Literature, A Watch in the Night, Not Built With Hands, The Metaphysical Poets, To the End of the World, and Victorian Prose, which she collaborated with F. Foster in editing. She is a graduate of Radcliffe College, and has her Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin. She also has a LL.D. from Mt. St. Scholastica, and an honorary Litt. D. from St. Mar's College. She was awarded the Laetara Medal from the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. Fuller, who is widely known as one of the South's outstanding ministers, has been president of the Georgia Baptist Convention and has served for some years as head of the home mission board. He is on the executive committee of the World Baptist Alliance. He is a native of Cross Hill, S. C.

Dr. Helen White will be the main speaker at Commencement exercises on June 13.

A Cappella To Give Famous Operetta Friday

"Naughty Marietta," Victor Herbert's well known light opera, is now being rehearsed by members of the A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Max Noah, for presentation Friday, May 20, in Russell Auditorium. The time is 8:00 p.m., and the admission is $1.00.

This production has the capable assistance of Edna West, dramatic director, who is in charge of the staging and dramatics. The set is being built by Jack Gore and college students. The dances for the opera are under the direction of Barbara Beiswanger, dance instructor, with the assistance of the GSCW Modern Dance Club.

"Naughty Marietta" has been everyone's favorite since its screen debut with Nelson Eddy and Jeanette McDonald in the title roles. Such familiar and beloved melodies as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Italian Street Song," and "I'm Falling in Love," will live forever in the hearts of those who have heard them.

New Orleans is the setting for the story and the year is 1780 when the King of France shipped a load of Casquette girls to America to become the brides of the settlers living here.

Captain Richard Warrington, a dashing American frontiersman, has been appointed to capture the notorious pirate, Bras Pique.

Marietta, a Casquette girl, incognito, escapes from the other Casquette maids. She later identifies herself as the lovely Marietta Contessa D'Altena. During the course of events, Marietta falls in love with Captain Dick and likewise, he with her.

The chorus is composed of 60 mixed voices. There is a cast of eight principals and a supporting group of ten.

The cast of characters is as follows: Marietta, Mildred Rydberg; Captain Richard Warrington, Trygve Rydberg; Lieutenant Governor Grandet, Jack Gore; Sir Harry Blake (Irish advertiser), Don Rhea; Silas Slid (Dick's servants), Harris Rogers; Rudolfo (Marionette theatre keeper), Gene Ford; Florene (Secretary to Lieutenant Governor), Minnie Alderman; Lizette (a Casquette girl), Hattie Casteel; Adab (a quadroon), Margie Joyner; Felice, Helen Johnson; Fanchon, Jane Slover; Indian, Arthur McDonald. Choruses for "Naughty Marietta"

God Grant Our Deaths

May Be As Brave

Every girl and faculty member at GSCW bowed their heads Friday evening in prayer for the tragedy that befell the nine Baptist students en route to a religious conference in Atlanta.

The graciousness and kindness of faculty, students and families holds a meaning that could never be forgotten.

The interest in the injured girls is the utmost thought of our campus. The air of the campus was incomparable during the time of the tragedy, and still holds a reverent tone. The fact that life must go forward after change was beautifully portrayed in a respectful manner.

Jean and Barbara, who were on a mission for God, have been blessed two-fold by multitudes of people, and the Holy Spirit. God grant our deaths may be as brave.

Fran Holst Speaks As A Sophomore

Watch that language Jessie; we don't like the word clique around here. But—just what is a clique? It is rather a hard thing to identify. Surely, it is not that group of girls coming across the campus to go to the show. They are seen together quite a lot, but does that necessarily mean they form what we so glibly put it—a clique? Somehow it seems a little juvenile to classify them as such. It is only natural that you like some friends better than others, so why refuse to go with those who meet your interest more than others, simply because it is, shall we say, unfriendly, not to go with every girl on campus.

There is such a thing as spreading ourselves too thin. So why sacrifice your special friends just to scatter yourself all over the student body?

Helen Lewis, Junior, Says Cliques Are For Kids!

When I think of a clique or gang, immediately there appears a mental picture of a group of children ranging from eight years of age to the age of puberty—cliques are characteristic of that particular age level, you know! For this specific reason and NUMEROUS others, I am utterly astounded at the thought of cliques existing on our campus. After all our college is noted for its friendly campus you remember, and I do not think cliques are characteristic or conducive to a campus noted and recognized for its friendliness.

If you read the stirring article in the last issue of The Colonnade, entitled "Jessie's on the Prowl Again," I'm sure it demanded thorough thought concerning this situation. Surely, this campus will strive to eliminate any such accusation, especially if the accuse is guilty—what do you think?

I do admit it is being a little harsh to classify these existing group as cliques, but I do think it would be wise if we did not get lost in our own little capable minds that we forget there are other girls around us who are not nearly so capable, not nearly so happy, and not nearly so sure of their security here. How many people exclusive of your little group of select friends have you made happy this week? How many girls has your group motivated or encouraged to come out and take part in something or to take a little job? Why not let our campus be inclusive of more girls and exclusive of these groups?

Yet I am not oblivious of the fact that people who have similar activities are more likely to be friends than others, but I think we have to learn to love and enjoy people who are not exactly our type.

As to the qualifications for entering one of these groups, I am unsure, but I do not think I would consider myself as lucky if I were identified by a group—I respect a certain amount of individuality!

Remember, there is a vast difference in friends and cliques so if you are a victim, why not try spreading out and thinking of the other girl and her problems and needs—there are many girls on our campus who need to experience the feeling of belongingness and security.

Think over Jessie—Let's not confuse the characteristics of the various age levels, for after all we are college women!

Honor Board Speaks

Tommy was crossing the street; he did not notice the car speeding around the bend. Mary saw it all and with one swift stride had caught Tommy in her arms and deposited him safely on the sidewalk.

Why did Mary act in such a way? Wouldn't almost everyone have done the same thing had she been in Mary's place? Well, whoa there, have you ever thought how this same principle works with our honor system. If one girl sees another stepping out along the danger mark, she is grabbed back to keep her from falling into the danger zone. Once saved she will be more careful as to how she travels along the road of campus rules and regulations.

The next time you find a girl breaking a rule, keep that principle in mind that you are helping that person from getting hurt, and don't fail to act accordingly.

We feel that the reason our honor system is not at its very height is because for the past four years we have tried to find the correct beginning place to start the honor system rolling. We have discovered that the upperclassmen are really setting the example as to how our freshmen will act later on. That is why it is so important to have good examples to encourage the students who are just coming in, along the right road.

I hear Dr. Taylor wants to add a course in carpentry to the curriculum . . . Now who on earth would want to take that?

A Seniors Opinion On "Cliques"

By BETTY MATTHEWS

Of course, this is only one senior's opinion, and because I have only been here for four years, and have been accused of being in a clique, I am afraid that my viewpoint might be considered biased. However, I shall attempt to give both the pro and con of the stated situation.

Webster says, "A clique is a small and exclusive set or coterie of persons." I feel sure that there are VERY few such groups or sets of individuals dwelling on the campus of GSCW. Of course, in every basket of apples there are some rotten ones. True, in SOME cases such a grouping may be carried to an extreme, but isn't it natural for girls with the same interests, who enjoy the same things and activities, who are thrown together day after day in classes, dormitory life and in so-curricular activities to be bound by certain bonds?

May I clear up something that was in a recent article concerning cliques? The statement was made that a member of "Y" had not invited anyone to Vespers since the first week of school. Every girl who is a member of the student body of GSCW is automatically a member of "Y," "Rec," and of CGA. It is up to the individual to avail herself of the opportunities as she so desires. Those few who do participate are labeled with the same old word and students say there is no point in their doing "thus-and-so" because THAT little group will take care of it and there is no place for them. There we have a vicious circle.

Playnight is a custom on campus that offers recreation to all, and no girl should feel that she has to be invited to participate in the activities offered there. "Rec" has tried to offer a varied program of activities to meet the individual interests of a large group. If only a small group attends playnight it is only natural that all the girls should play the same game for want of teams in other games.

There are probably very few sets on campus who are actively unfriendly to others and discourage the entry of other girls into their group. I agree that there should be none. But other groups of friends (who would be friendly to anyone) should not be classed as "snobbish" and "cliquish" because they are drawn together by common interests and/or location. Isn't it only natural that these girls should find themselves spending much of their spare time together? This spontaneous and unconscious "seeking of kind" is not at all unnatural, and yet, they are branded with "CLIQUE."

Seniors Enjoy Series Of Festivities

Thursday, May 12 was Kid Day on the GSCW campus, with the dignified Seniors enjoyed this day of childhood by going barefoot, carrying dolls, and shooting water pistols. A Kid Party was held on the side lawn of Sanford Hall at 4:30 in the afternoon. Popcorn, suckers and balloons were given to the Seniors. There was a contest to determine the biggest baby, the prettiest baby, and the baby with the biggest waistline.

Judges were Miss Ethel Adams, Mrs. Donald H. MacMahon, Dr. Frances Hicks, and Dr. Ed Dawson.

Jesseis Vacation At Summer Camps

A number of Jessie will not go home on June 13 to spend a leisurely three months at loafing and the like. They will be counselors at a number of different summer camps in the United States.

The YWCA camp in College Camp Wisconsin will attract Delores Davis, Covington; Deores Wheeler, LaFayette and Betty Stancil, Gainesville, College camp is a work camp with seminars three times per week.

Nina Durrett, Milledgeville, will attend a Students in Industry project in Los Angeles, California. There will be regular work during the day, seminars three nights a week, recreation and trips to highlight her vacation.

Dot Boyd, Rome; Weylene Edwards and Ann Wells of Milledgeville will visit the Students in Government project where they will study and practice in the work of government in the country's capitol in Washington D. C.

Julia Hardin, Juliette, will be land sport director; Lillie Suter will be in charge of afternoon activities; Mary Alice Howard, evening program. Camp Mountain view is a welfare camp for underprivileged children.

The disease reaches its worst stage almost as soon as contracted and then gradually subsides. Of course, different cases are afflicted in different manners. A normal case will be over by the end of spring or the first of July. There are chronic cases that appear and reappear with the appearance of a letter with that "certain" postmark. It's hard to say if the disease is easier after the first attack . . . some say it's lighter; others maintain that it's worse every year.

As yet, there have been no bottle or pill cures found. The most effective treatment is to leave the patient in this state alone in a room with a record player and stack of smooth records. Feed lightly, but do not force. Forget any minor symptoms that may be bothersome to companions. Overlook those little monotonous tunes hummed constantly. And let the patient do as she likes.

Follow these directions carefully—they are guaranteed—We haven't lost a patient yet . . .

Miss Whitney Made GSC Dean Of Women

Miss Althea H. Whitney has been appointed to the office of Dean of Women at Georgia Southwestern College in Americus, Ga., effective in September, 1949. This announcement was made this week by President Henry King Stanford.

In addition to her duties as Dean of Women, Miss Whitney will serve as director of Physical Education for women students.

At the present time Miss Whitney is assistant professor of Physical Education on the GSCW campus.

Even if calendars hadn't been invented, there would always be one season of the year that everybody would know. You guessed it—Spring! No, not just the trees and the grass and the flowers foretell the coming of this unusual time of the year. Don't forget, "In the spring a young man's fancy turns to lighter things of life . . ." And the fairer sex are no exception to this rule. Spring brings with her buds and bees and bright green, also a disease—a disease called LOVE; and is contracted most easily, and is most critical between the ages of 12 and 21.

The SYMPTOMS are: No appetite; loss of memory; dulled expression with far-away look in the eyes; a sudden desire for love songs and moonlit night; studies forgotten; unable to be reached in normal conversation; very often rings will appear on the left fourth fingers; feet rarely on the ground; and a general mixture of sighs, swoons, and moans.

The disease reaches its worst stage almost as soon as contracted and then gradually subsides. Of course, different cases are afflicted in different manners. A normal case will be over by the end of spring or the first of July. There are chronic cases that appear and reappear with the appearance of a letter with that "certain" postmark. You Supply The Remedy

Chapel meetings are compulsory. Is this one word the center of upheaval every Monday and Friday at 10:30? Everyone can figure out reasons why chapel attendance must be compulsory, but can anyone solve the problem of why chapel attention should not be compulsory?

It is only our duty to be courteous to the speaker. After all we are old enough to know how to act as a group and as an individual. Must the faculty look down on us for our unruly conduct?

There might be a basis for complaint if there were a daily hour spent in the auditorium, but one hour per week is the only time the entire student body and faculty are together.

Must we slap strict campus penalties on these chronic misbehavers? Place monitors on each row with a long stick? or take it upon the honor of the girls to show themselves as ladies?

The student leaders and faculty advisors have tried! The student committee on chapel programs has proved itself a success, and the college has obtained some very good speakers for our benefit.

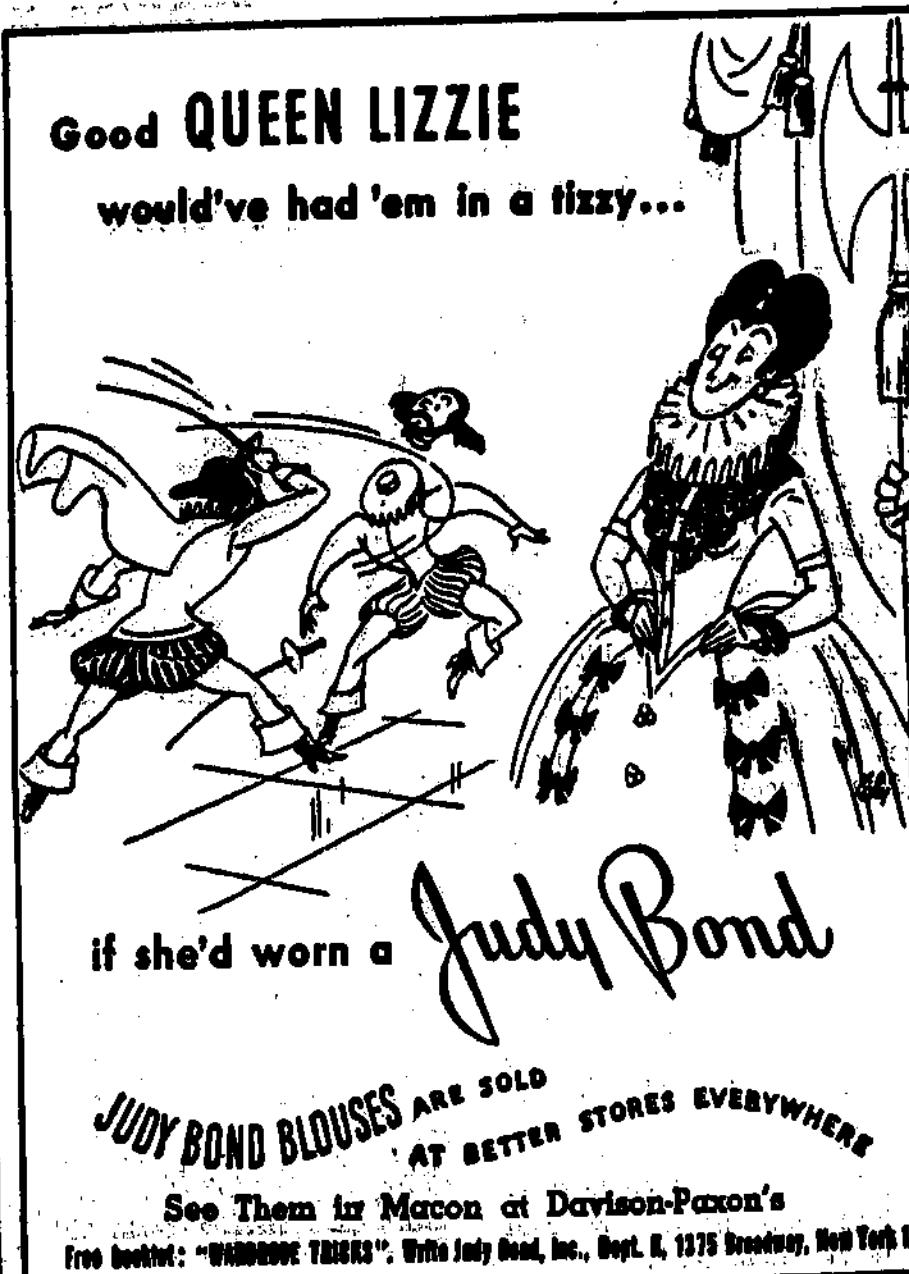

The class officers have discussed disorderly conduct and tried to deal with the problem through the classes, but the plan failed because of lack of cooperation.

Ten Ways To Get A Date In Milledgeville

1. Well, of course, you can just sit around and wait. Sooner or later somebody is bound to turn up. But there is no guarantee as to what this character will look like. You may be quite old by this time.

2. A more effective way is to go and stand on the corner by the monument with a tight skirt, high heels, rouge, make-up three inches deep, and just look alluring.

3. There are among us the few who are more aggressive than the first and yet not quite so regressive as the second. For these we suggest that you just call GMC and ask the first boy who answers for a date.

4. If this method fails, then you can always rely on the roommate to dig up somebody to double date with. However, you might just want to bury him again...

5. If none of these work, why not join the Boy Scouts? They may be a little young, but age is not important at this crisis. After all, you can learn to tie knots, if nothing else.

6. If you're really desperate, you can go and sit in Tommy's and wait until all the booths are filled but the one you're in; and maybe some male will be forced to join you.

7. On the way in, it might be a good idea to leave a trail of hankies (on second thought kleenex are cheaper.) This way the unsuspecting character may be led straight into your trap.

8. If looks are your problem, try the Budarry Success Course. In six years if you don't look like Lana Turner—Well, by that time looks shouldn't worry you anyway!

9. Try an advertisement in the Colonade. It should read something like this: "Wanted an eligible bachelor—any make, any age (almost), any size—Please contact—(your name)."

10. If these methods fail, you'd better just give up hope and become resigned to spinsterhood. You're doomed, sister!

Seniors Make Plans For Class Dance

Coming up! The Senior dance, June 11th, in Sanford Rec Hall. The decorations will be beautiful flowers, and the florists of Milledgeville will do the decorating. Who could ask for more?

Music will be provided by Sam Geddon's Orchestra from Macon. The Senior girls "love" that orchestra's music—or is it the players?

The committees are headed by Nita Nesmith, chairman; Elizabeth Perry, invitations; Cissy Mitchell, breakfast; Ann Garrard, refreshments; and decoration by Iva Bea Pauk.

Let us not forget the breakfast which follows all the senior dances.

majors will be guests at a banquet on Thursday evening at 5:15 o'clock in the college cafeteria. The speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Catherine Allen, recreational head at the University of Tennessee.

Bell Hall Honors Deans With Garden Party Saturday

Bell Hall will entertain faculty, parents and friends at a garden party and dance on May 21, from 7:30 until 12 o'clock p.m.

The garden party will be in honor of Miss Ethel Adams and Mrs. Frances Hicks, the out-going and in-coming dean of women.

Mrs. Orion Bowden, housemother, will head the receiving line with Miss Adams, Mrs. Hicks and the dormitory officers, Betty Goodman, president; Jane Grier, vice-president; Haywood Deane, secretary; and Billie Ann Davis, treasurer.

The garden party will begin at 7:30 in the Bell Hall garden. The dance will be held in the Bell Rec Hall from 9:00 until 12 o'clock.

Emily Ann Watson, Hawkinsville, is general chairman of the occasion. Other committee chairmen are Anne Moore, Griffin; decorations; Delores Wheeler, Lafayette, invitations; Waverleen Boyde, Elberton, refreshments; Nell Cowart, Cartersville, entertainment; Teeney Price, Elberton, music; and Dot Hansard, Hapeville, clean up.

Mrs. Wootten Named To Important Post

Mrs. Stewart Wootten, head of the health department at GSCW, was named chairman of the Health Education Division of Georgia at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, held last week in Savannah.

Mrs. Wootten, who is regarded as a pioneer and an authority in the field of health education in colleges is the author of several books.
